The Rural Health Research Institute, an interdisciplinary hub of research and outreach focused on improving health in rural communities, is seeking a graduate assistant to serve as a graphic designer.

The GA will be responsible for:

- Creation of print media products including newsletters, brochures, infographics, resource guides, promotional items, and displays
- Creation of digital media products including videos, presentations, and online versions of print resources
- Assisting with branding efforts, including expansion of existing branding and development of new branding strategies
- Taking photographs and videos as needed
- Updating and enhancing the RHRI’s web presence
- Other duties as assigned to assist the RHRI’s efforts in research, outreach, and training.

The graduate assistant will work 20 hours per week. For more information, please contact RHRI Executive Director Dr. Bryant Smalley at BSmalley@GeorgiaSouthern.edu